I have several good bargains in houses that I can sell, by you paying a small payment down and the balance on monthly instalments. Call at my office and I will gladly explain to you and show you the property and if you are looking for a vacant lot to build on, an acre lot in the city or a 5 acre lot near city limits. BUSINESS COLLEGE BENEFIT TO COMMUNITY

Needs Encouragement and Hearty Support of Citizens—List of Graduates and Their Positions.

Rhineland Business College has been in our midst less than two years and yet many graduates have completed their school course and are in offices doing excellent work. Many people do not take kindly to the business college but they do excellent service for any community. Young people who complete a high school course and expect to go into an office should have a thorough drill in the common branches and add to this a knowledge of business methods and this is exactly what a good business college gives. Many young people leave school in the midst of the course of study and if they had to return to the public school to secure a better education, they would never get it but they do go to the business college and get thoroughly grounded in the common branches and business course and partially make up for what they lost in failing to complete their public school course. Business college then do a work that the public schools cannot do. We should take kindly to our business college and give it our encouragement and when conditions seem right, give it our hearty support. If the family conditions are right the children are better off in the home town, than away, so send the children to your own home institution where opportunity to over-see them is a thousand fold better and the expense of maintaining them is greatly reduced.

If you doubt what we say regarding the merits of our own business college, read the list of pupils, who have already taken the course and are out in the actual business of life making good. Below is the list with the positions they are filling:

Delbert Toppling, Mattoon, Heinemann Lbr. Co., Heinemann, Wis.

County Treasurer, Carl Krueger, held the annual Tax Sale on Tuesday. The usual number of bidders were present. At times the bidding became very exciting as a spectator remarked that it reminded him of the board of trade of Chicago. Tax bidders from outside the city were, L. A. Doolittle, Eau Claire, Kate Pier Milwaukee, Geo. Marshall, Tomahawk, other heavy bidders were E. C. Sturdevant, Phillip Rogers from Brown Bros., Chris. Eby, Mrs. Douglass, Otto Krantz, O. A. Jenny, Mrs. Shelton, A. E. Weesner and others. The sale was completed in one day; very few certificates remained unsold.

SCHOOL CONCERT GREAT SUCCESS

Crowded House Awaits Program
Given By Pupils

The May Festival given Thursday May 12th, at the Opera House, under the supervision of Miss Helen Alban and the grade teachers, was a great success and was thoroughly enjoyed by the crowds that packed the Opera House. By seven thirty o'clock every seat was taken and a short time after, all available standing room was occupied.

From first to last of the performance, the young entertainers held the audience's closest attention and numerous encores recalled them for a repetition of the parts.

Most of the program consisted of action songs, given in costume, and these, especially, called forth enthusiastic demonstration of the audience. The little folks knew their parts to perfection and did credit to the hard work and drilling, given by those in charge.

A similar entertainment was given last year. This year's success will warrant, we hope, another festival in May, 1911. Nothing draws a crowd like a school entertainment, where parents and friends are personally interested.

PROMINENT MAN PASSES SUDDENLY

Dr. C. H. O'Connor Found Dead in Dental Parlor—Loss Will Be Keenly Felt.

Dr. C. H. O'Connor was found in an unconscious condition at his dental parlor, Tuesday at about one o'clock and all efforts at resuscitation proved fruitless.

The doctor had not been feeling well for several days, complaining of uneasiness and dizziness. Ernest Hennings was the last to see him alive. He had a date with him but the doctor felt so miserable that he felt unable to do any work and Ernest left about eleven o'clock.

As he did not go home to dinner by one o'clock, Mrs. O'Connor telephoned, and not getting any answer, asked Frank Sawtell to go up and see if anything was wrong. Before he could do so Mrs. J. O. Raymond had entered the rooms to see the doctor and found him lying upon the floor. She at once gave the alarm and physicians were soon doing everything in their power to revive the spark of life, were any remaining, but he had passed to the beyond.

Little was done on the streets during the afternoon, the one topic among the business men being the untimely taking away of one of their number, and the tear dimmed eyes showed the high esteem in which the doctor was held. He was a man respected by all classes and was an honor to his profession on account of his ability and thoroughness of work. His loss in the community will be keenly felt.

He was thirty-eight years of age.

In 1892 he was elected as Registrar of Deeds in Oneida County and filled the office two years, when he went to University of Pennsylvania Dental College at Philadelphia, where he graduated three years later. He practiced at his profession in Green Bay and later came to this city about nine years ago. He was soon married to Miss Anna LaSelle, who with one little daughter mourn his loss. He leaves a mother, five sisters and three brothers, who are: mother, Mrs. Ann O'Connor, sisters, Mrs. D. H. Donnellan and Mrs. Ella Calvert, East Claire; Mrs. D. E. Rindon, Ashland; Mrs. A. H. Hayden and Mrs. May Ellison, Chicago; brothers—Geo. E. O'Connor, Eagle River; Dr. W. F. O'Connor, Ladysmith; Dr. D. J. O'Connor, Appleton, all of whom are in the city except Mrs. Calvert.

The funeral is being held at the residence at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Grant Clark officiating. The Elk Lodge attended in a body.

COLLECTIONS WILL BE FORCED

The unpaid personal property tax of the city of Rhineland, is now in the hands of B. N. Moran, deputy sheriff and he is instructed by the county board to force these collections. The law gives Mr. Moran the right to seize any property he can get hold of for these taxes.

BALL GAME AT MERRILL

Local Fans Defeated By Merrill—7 to 0. Absence of Sohr and Nesbit Cripple Team

Last Sunday the Rhineland base ball team was defeated by Merrill by a score of 7 to 0. The boys were shut out by reason of the fact that opposed to them in the pitcher's box, was Van Patter, a twirler whose delivery they were unable to gauge with any accuracy. Taken into connection with Van Patter's masterful pitching and poor fielding at critical times on the part of McCormick, a substitute third base man, whom the management were forced to take with them owing to the illness of Sohr and the absence of Nesbit, the wonder is they did as well as the score shows.

For pitching honors, Rooney shone almost, if not equally as brilliant as Van Patter. Merrill only made five safe hits off the south paw. Seven errors behind Rooney was discouraging at the most, yet he continued to pitch just as good ball as though the champion Pittsburghers were at his call. The runs credited to Merrill were all made after two men had been disposed of, with chances of retiring the side. In the seventh inning with men on second and third, waiting to be driven home, one having gotten on base through an error and nobody out, Rooney forced the following three batsmen to pop three fouls in rapid succession for easy outs. Post grabbed one, while Bles took care of the other two.

Bles on first, played exceptionally good, having fourteen chances without a skip and securing two of the three hits credited to Rhineland. Manager Belliel states that third baseman Jastram leaves Fond du Lac for Rhineland some time during the week. Jastram is the man who filled the third base corner so creditably last season. His presence in the line up will be hailed with much joy by the "fans," for he can certainly play this important position a no one else, who has ever performed there for Rhineland. A short stop is also being considered.

STATE FAIR OF MINNESOTA

Aeroplane Flight To Be New Feature—
Many Attractions Promised

A circular reaches us announcing the dates of the Minnesota State Fair as September 5 to 10 inclusive. Minnesota has one of the best state fairs in the Union, and has more features than ever before.

Many large and extensive attractions have been presented at the Minnesota State Fair but it has been left to the fair of 1910 to offer a spectacular production so unique in character and so tremendous in proportion as to astound those unfamiliar with catering to the likes of State Fair patrons.

This will be the greatest entertainment ever given to a fair association. Arrangements are being arranged for the Wright Bros. Aeroplane and the manager of the Wrights say it is a certainty that machine will be made to fly.

There are many other equally fine and novel attractions. Minneapolis is the place to see a great State Fair, yes, a real exposition.

NEW POSTMASTER AT ANTIGO

"President Taft sent to the senate Monday the nomination of Richard Koebke as postmaster at Antigo, in place of Edward Cleary, whose term has expired."

Mr. Koebke had the indorsement of Congressman Morse.

BALLINGER INVESTIGATION HAS NEW IMPETUS.

Letter of Exoneration Was Written in Ballinger's Office.

Although the Ballinger investigation has been going on about four months, the greatest sensations yet have taken place in the last days. Last Saturday, Frederick F. Kerby, a stenographer in Secretary Ballinger's office made affidavit that the letter written by President Taft last fall, exonerating Secretary Ballinger was prepared and drafted in Ballinger's office, that he (Kerby) acted as stenographer and Oscar Lawler, Ballinger's attorney in the Interior Department, prepared the letter with the full oversight by Mr. Ballinger himself. This last turn of the investigation brings President Taft directly into the limelight. He has felt it necessary to explain. He admits receiving the letter for use but says only part of it was used by himself.

More, he announces that he made an investigation of the material with Attorney General Wickersham and made a new draft. Many are wondering how thorough an investigation the president could make of nine hundred pages in about eight hours' time. This last phase of the case has put President Taft and his friends on the defensive. Many say it is the last straw in the balance that decides the fate of the Taft Administration.

Tuesday's testimony was more startling than any that had preceded it. Mr. Kerby did not hesitate to swear that Secretary Ballinger had testified falsely before the committee time after time. The most sensational point was reached when Mr. Kerby read letters between Mr. Ballinger and George W. Perkins of the firm of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. These letters showed a deep interest on Mr. Ballinger's part in developing the Alaskan railroads and Alaska mines. In a letter to Mr. Ballinger, Mr. Perkins suggested that Secretary Ballinger's own son go along and act as engineer.

It is suggested that further sensational testimony is still to come; even more startling than any that has been given yet and with recent developments, the Taft administration is now on trial by the voters of the U. S. It makes no difference whether the majority of the investigation committee white washes Ballinger or not, many of the American people have decided that he is not a fit man to look out for their interests as head of the Department of the Interior with millions at stake. More, they have decided that the Taft cabinet, made up of corporation lawyers and professional politicians, are wholly incapable of seeing and protecting the people's interests.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT VENEER FACTORY

Thos. Gardner, An Employee Meets
Death Saturday—Fell Driven Into
Head and Arm Mangled

A gruesome accident occurred about ten o'clock Saturday morning at the Veneer Plant, when Thomas Gardner met with a fatal injury, which two hours later resulted in death.

It will never be known just how it happened for there was no witness to the awful tragedy. As he was feeding the machine that grinds the refuse or wood scraps, the material must have become clogged in the rollers. It is supposed that he reached over attempting to free the roller. In so doing he must have been caught by the sleeve, and thrown violently forward, striking with sufficient force so that a bolt was driven into his head. His arm was also badly mangled. The unconscious man was at once taken to St. Mary's Hospital but was beyond medical aid and the end came shortly after twelve o'clock, noon.

Mr. Gardner was 57 years of age and had been employed at the Veneer Plant for several years. He had been a resident of this city for fourteen years and was generally known. He leaves a wife and six children: Will, Matt, Ed, Frank, John and Jamie, all of this city.

The funeral was held at St. Mary's church Tuesday morning at 9:30, Father McCann officiating.

DAVID JACOBSON'S

The Big Store With Little Prices.
 RHINELANDER, WIS.

FROM NEARBY TOWNS

Deerbrook—This vicinity is becoming a great dairy place, 50 gallons of cream, having been shipped in three days of last week.

Horicon—Isaac Winter, a resident of this place saw Halley's comet in 1821. At that time he was a lad of 14 and was living in New Jersey. He states that there was a shower of meteors, which much resembled a display of fire works and which greatly disturbed the neighbors who thought the world was coming to an end.

Ladysmith—A. A. Pierson, who conducts the Hotel Port Arthur near Ladysmith, was shot and killed Wednesday evening in a quarrel over the pasturing of a cow. Mrs. Mike Mikaski, a Polish woman, admits the shooting. She and her husband are in jail. The hotel owner objected to the Polish woman pasturing her cow on land owned by him, and quarrels have been numerous.

Ashland—A car load of tubercular cows were sent away last week, having been condemned by the veterinary surgeon. Such cattle are taken by the state and slaughtered in Milwaukee, when the hides are utilized and the carcasses are converted into soap, etc., no part of the animal being permitted to be used for food purposes.

Marinette—The Northern Turpen fine company is platting a town near this city for a population of 4,000 people.

Unity—The R. Connor company has purchased the land and timber owned by the Mosinee Land company in the town of Emmet and will extend its logging road so as to haul the logs to Stratford to be sawed into lumber. The land comprises some 3,000 acres of virgin forest.

Chippewa Falls—A. J. Sunderland was shot and killed by his wife Saturday night. The quarrel started over the purchase of a skirt. The couple have four children. Mrs. Sunderland has been found.

Wausau—Last Sunday St. Stephen's Evangelical Lutheran church was dedicated. The structure is German Gothic of red brick. The church has the distinction of possessing a beautiful and expensive little presented by Emperor Wm. II.

Washburn—Judge John K. Parrish sentenced the Italian boy murderer, Louis Carlone, convicted here recently, to fifteen years in the state penitentiary, and Thomas Lillys, convicted of murdering his companion while out hunting near Port Wing, to twenty years in the state prison, and the Indian, John Beauregard, convicted of killing another Indian at Eau Claire Lakes, was sentenced for life.

Superior—Effie Johnson, who was shot by her sweetheart about three weeks ago, is convalescing. The examination of Nick Schommer, her assailant, was postponed to May 30 in order that she might appear against him.

Wausau—The diphtheria and scarlet fever situation remains unchanged. Cases are constantly occurring in spite of efforts of the Board of Health.

Medford—Forest fires are raging in all parts of Taylor county and thousands of dollars of damage has been done. At Goodrich considerable timber has been destroyed and at Westboro damage to timber, logs and bark will run into thousands of dollars. The farmers all through the country have been fighting fire night and day.

Stanley—Two hundred and fifty thousand feet of lumber belonging to Marshfield and Appleton parties has burned at Hannibal, north of here. All the slashings north of here are afire; many logging camps have been burned and jobbers have lost their entire camp equipment in the last few days. It has never been so dry in this vicinity, practically no rain having fallen here since November, 1909, and only about 18 inches of snow in the last six months.

Cumberland—Two fast freight trains collided head on between here and Barabett. Monday, smashing the engines and nearly all the cars in both trains and injuring both engineers, a fireman and a brakeman, the latter sustaining injuries that may be fatal. It is claimed that the wreck was caused by an operator failing to hold the south-bound freight in the block.

Iron River—Game Warden Lund, who has been thru the fire region, says he saw rabbits apparently as bare as picked chickens, their hair having been burned off as they ran through or away from the forest fires.

Ashland—The body of Ed. Fentely who disappeared last fall, was found in the White River, Friday. Papers in the man's pockets identified him; also his watch. He is supposed to have been deranged and either to have fallen or walked into the river.

Mellen—Burglars broke into the Meredith Mercantile company's store some time during Tuesday night and secured $57 in cash. There was no money in the safe.

DOUGHNUTS RISE HIGHER
 The latest phase of the high price of living question is the rise in "sinkers." Not the small piece of metal attached to the line of a fisherman, but the round eatable made of dough and with a hole in the center.

Bakers in different cities in the state have notified their customers that doughnuts or fried cakes as they are sometimes called, had been increased from 10 to 12 cents a dozen, and that is not all. The doughnuts, which have been shaken in a bag in order to powder them with sugar, have increased from 12 to 15 cents a dozen.

The cause for the increase in price, according to the bakers, is the rise in the prices of lard and flour. As a result of all this thrifty housewives have taken coffee and "sinkers" off the morning rations as there is a report in circulation to the effect that all that will soon be left of the sinkers if prices keep on going up, is the rim.—Evening Wisconsin.

BOARD AND ROOMS WANTED
 Without doubt one hundred and fifty teachers will be brought to Rhinelander by the summer school. Many of these will desire either boarding or rooming places or both. To provide for them it is necessary to know the names and addresses of those who will furnish board and room, board only, room only, or who will rent rooms for light house keeping. Terms should be the basis of a week of seven days, and of five days. Drop a postal to F. A. Harrison if you can help take care of summer school students.

DISPATCH FROM MARS

Mars, solar system tearing along at a rate of about 14,000 miles a minute and breaking all astral records for the last ten centuries, Halley's comet passed here at 10 o'clock this morning headed for Earth, whereto it expected to hit about Wednesday. Not more than 50,000,000 Martians were killed by gases. Warning signals have been displayed for the Earthlings, as grave fears are felt for that entire planet, but they have been so far disregarded.

To the Citizens of Oneida County:— I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination on the Republican ticket for District Attorney of Oneida County. I am making my announcement at the present time in view of the fact that the present District Attorney, S. S. Miller, has declared that he will not be a candidate for reelection and for the purpose of informing the friends, who have requested me to be a candidate for this office, that I have commenced my campaign. If nominated and elected District Attorney at the elections next fall I will use my best efforts towards giving the people of Oneida County an honest and able administration. Thanking you for your support, I am,
 Sincerely yours,

RAIN STOPS FIRES

The great tension and anxiety felt by timber holders and farmers, for the past three weeks, was relieved when Monday afternoon rain began falling, first as a mist and later as a down pouring rain, which will prove to an end, danger from fire. While for the most part, the fires in this immediate vicinity were confined to slashings and swamps, much uneasiness has been felt on account of the dry condition, caused by lack of moisture for so many weeks, and the prevailing high winds which would cause a spark soon to become an impressive wall of fire. In Northern Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin, immense damage to property has been caused and dozens of families have fled from their homes losing their all and barely escaping with their lives. Hundreds of men have been fighting fire for the past week and grave fears have been entertained as to the outcome, should rain not come soon.

If warm weather follows this glorious rain all vegetation will spring up and gardens will take a start. For several weeks vegetation has been at a stand still.—In fact April and May have not been "growing" months. An early spring in this country does not pay.

AUTOMOBILES GO TO MERRILL SUNDAY

Twelve autos started for Merrill to take in the base ball game Sunday. All but one reached their destination, tho' few went through without a mishap. There were "blow outs" and "blow ups" of several kinds. Following is a list of those who went: B. L. Horr's two autos, A. S. Pierce, Dr. McIndoe, D. L. Recker, Wm. Eibel, F. S. Robbins, J. W. Van Alstyne, J. H. Morgan's two autos, Matt Christenson and Chas. Conro. The latter decided to spend his time at Bundy for a "Bird in hand is worth two in a bush." It is rumored that the occupants of one machine sang the sweet refrain "We won't go home until morning." This is only rumor. You may ask Burley Horr for particulars. The ball players were driven over in autos owned by J. H. Morgan and J. W. Van Alstyne. They didn't get there as is evinced by the score.

Merrill came over in four autos but it took eleven to carry the Rhinelanderites. Is that to be considered a relative proportion of the base ball enthusiasm in the two cities.

A WOMAN'S GREATEST STUDY

A woman's greatest study is how to look her best, and we must admit it helps some when a woman is well dressed; and all this constant effort, as a rule, to please some man, an occupation she has followed since the world began. She cultivates a smile for him who is her heart's delight, and when he is absent from her she never happy quite; her house she also studies, it's full beauty to attain, on each floor she'll use Chi-Namel, and you bet it will remain. Very few people can wear their "best clothes" every day and in all weathers but a house which is so fortunate to possess a Chi-Namel varnish suffers no injury from water heat, cold, soap suds or hard knocks. Just give it a trial. Sold by

INDIAN CHIEF DIES

Moses White of Odanah, one of the four chiefs of the Odanah band is dead at the age of 65.

White was a very prominent Indian and devoted a large part of his time to the interests of his people. He made many trips to Washington, appearing before the Commissioner on Indian affairs where he spoke and answered questions on many troublesome matters that have been agitated for years. White's eldest son, it is supposed will succeed to the office of his father, as he has been educated in the Government School and is undoubtedly qualified to fill the place.

MERRILL TO CELEBRATE

Merrill has announced that she will celebrate the 4th of July in a style that will eclipse everything in that line heretofore attempted. The North Eastern Wisconsin Modern Woodmen Association will hold their annual picnic there the 4th, and the committee in charge are making elaborate preparations to make this event the greatest celebration in Northern Wisconsin.

In the Northern country, we have been more concerned over forest fires than over the comet.

Some people are disappointed that the comet did not create a disturbance. They are always looking for trouble and are disappointed when it doesn't come to them.

Sometime ago, talk upon the streets caused the New North representative to look up the work of the Municipal Judge in relation to the Dawson case and we fail to find any cause for criticizing the Judge. We also talked with Rev. Grant Clark regarding the duty of the sheriff's office before printing his communication of last week, and his spirit was not so much to criticize as to investigate the facts as a matter of justice to all concerned and the welfare of the general public. The omission of a line from Mr. Clark's article gave a wrong interpretation. It throws a criticism upon the Judge which was not intended.

Dr. Bennett Clark Hyde who has been on trial for the killing and attempted killing of many of his wife's relatives that a large fortune night fall in his hands, was convicted and sentenced to state's prison for life. It is a case of a man's using all his scientific knowledge to quench his thirst for gold. No profession should do more for the human race and yet too many take up the work poorly prepared because they think they can earn more money and hold better positions for the investment than in any other line. Evidences arise every day which prove that too many of them are spending a large part of their energies figuring for the mighty dollar, rather than doing good for suffering humanity. They wholly fail to reach up to the ethics of the profession.

SUCCESS OF THE PROGRESSIVE MOVEMENT

From all parts of the country come encouraging reports of the progress toward the return to representative government. The election of Herbert P. Keller as mayor of St. Paul is a victory for good municipal government. St. Paul was one of the worst boss ridden cities in the United States. The machine according to a writer in the Chicago Public, was a complete alliance, offensive and defensive, between the public service corporations and all forms of vice under the personal direction of an resourceful and competent manager as exists in any city anywhere.

The recently discovered grafters in Pittsburg are being sentenced to terms in prison and in Illinois the investigation into the alleged corruption of the legislature to secure the election of William Lorimer to the United States Senate is being prosecuted with vigor although it is also evident that the guilty ones are countering with a powerful machine. Sufficient evidence has already been secured to insure the conviction of Lorimer before the tribunal of public opinion even if the courts acquit him. The final result will be the same—a victory for good government and a blow to money rule.

The progress of the insurgent cause at Washington is almost marvelous. Three years ago Senator La Follette stood alone in the senate and when he spoke on the railroad bill the standpatters, under the leadership of Aldrich, left the room and did other contemptible things in their effort to belittle him in the eyes of his countrymen. That was the time he made his now famous prediction that "Many of the seats temporarily vacant today may be permanently vacant later." Only three years have passed and La Follette now musters sufficient strength to defeat legislation in favor of the mammoth corporations in spite of the fact that it is inaugurated by the President himself. In the House the old guard led by Cannon and Delzell has repeatedly been routed and the Progressives who two years ago were limited almost to Cooper and Nelson of Wisconsin, have gained the ascendancy and can practically do as they please in the House. Better days and better laws are in sight.

The success of the Progressive movement and the passing power of the old political machine at Washington is evidenced by the following paragraph taken from a circular issued by the National City Bank of New York, the head of Standard Oil's great and dominating financial system:

"The old centers of control in both houses have been disrupted so that it is no longer possible to reach agreements as to what shall and what shall not be done, and to fix an approximate time for final adjournment. There is no man now, in either Senate or House, who can predict safely the form in which any given bill will be passed, or the time at which it will go through."

The days of "Government by Stand and Oil" are numbered.

THE APPROACHING CONTEST

The standpatters are promising a spectacular campaign for Wisconsin Money without limit is to be flooded over every county. Every newspaper with a price will receive double this year. Thousands of workers and hundreds of thousands of pamphlets, printed in every language, will cover the state in the cause of Taft and high tariff. The Eastern barons are willing to give down freely to defeat La Follette for he is the first and most uncompromising insurgent.

Cannon is nursing his bruises and will probably deliver speeches in Madison where he can get even with La Follette and Nelson, and in Racine, where Mr. Cooper lives. Ballinger will speak in Wausau for Neal Brown, the anti-conservationist. Wickersham is to open the ball shortly in Milwaukee and explain why he dismissed the government suite against the New Haven Railway, why he employed a railroad lobbyist to draw the Administration Railway Bill and why he antedated the Glavis report to the President and why any man who differs from him is a traitor to his party. Hitchcock is expected to explain just why all patronage was taken away from the insurgents. Aldrich will occupy jointly an evening with Smoot the Mormon Senator, explaining the woolen schedule of the greatest tariff bill ever passed.

With this flow of oratory and money it is firmly believed Wisconsin can be stamped and bought up. Jackpot methods will be used in the legislature if La Follette is nominated and the old Badger state will be fully Lorrimerized.

This sounds well but it remains to be seen if the state can be bought up. The people know La Follette has no money with which to fight the trusts' power and when men use money the question will be asked, "Where did you get it?" The next legislative investigation will make the Lorrimer bribery episode look quiet by comparison for "Eleventh Story League" methods are shopworn and the papers that have their price will be placed under the microscope.

There are not many local orators to spellbind for Mr. Cook and the greatest Tariff Bill. Mr. Cook is a hand-shaker, not a talker. Davidson will not take the stump against La Follette. Bankroft will not be able to mislead the farmers, they know his subservience to the twine trust in defeating the Prison twine plant. Stafford will have all he can attend to in his own district. Ingalls and Hambrecht will have to explain some very badly colored proceedings as members of the investigation committee. So it will resolve itself into a money campaign with pyrotechnics from the leading standpatters in the country.

Edmonds has been ignored, Davidson sidetracked and Stephenson told to get out the way for the new political steam roller in Wisconsin. Can Connor win with his force of forty clerks and can Cannon, Aldrich, Smoot, Ballinger, Hitchcock and Wickersham make black look white? If they can and if money talks then La Follette may be defeated, but those who know the situation in the state are offering to bet big odds on his victory over the Lorrimerists.

A FRIEND OF S. A. COOK.

Chippewa Independent. "Ex-Senator Ring of Neillsville was in town for a few hours yesterday. The Senator is one of the very able men in this part of the state and an uncompromising stalwart. It is understood that he will organize this part of the state for Mr. Cook, senatorial candidate. The headquarters of Mr. Cook will be at Marshfield in charge of W. D. Connor. The plans of the stalwarts are to nominate people for the assembly who have not committed themselves and who can be depended upon to vote right when they get to Madison, regardless of who gets the primary nomination. It looks as if we might have a long and bitter campaign and that there would be plenty in it for the grafter."

lobbyist. He admitted having received $45 from Stevenson's committee and that he paid $2 to a candidate for the legislature.

LaFollette's Real Opponent. Monroe Evening Times. "Connor rewrote Cook's platform and purposefully made it as offensive to the people of Wisconsin as he could without betraying his object. That platform serves Connor two purposes: It appeals to Wall street for funds and assures the defeat of Cook at the primaries. Trusty lieutenants of the wiley Connor have been in every legislative district of the state selecting candidates who will be pledged to vote against LaFollette even if he does get the nomination at the primaries. Connor himself has interviewed some of the less tractable candidates.

If Connor captures the legislature LaFollette will be defeated and Sam Cook side-tracked. When the time comes to elect a senator Connor will argue with his members of the legislature that, whereas Cook was repudiated at the primaries it would be unwise to elect him senator. It would be better to select a third party, a dark horse. It would be the most natural thing in the world for his legislature to listen to its master's voice and elect the darkest horse in the bunch, W. D. Connor."

TARIFF BOARD STANDPAT TOOL

THE ORGANIZATION MEASURE IS MEANT TO BE A MISLEADING ONE.

PROGRESSIVES WILL FIGHT

Bill as Reported Gives Commission No Practical Power—Senator Bourne's Sensational Speech on the Subject of Popular Government.

Washington.—Chairman Tawney of the committee on appropriations gave out a statement in regard to the $350,000 appropriation carried in the sundry civil bill which is entirely misleading as to the character of the authority conferred upon the tariff board. It is designed to carry to the country the impression that under the legislation provided for in connection with the appropriation item authority is conferred granting all of the power which could be granted on legislation attached to an appropriation bill.

Under the authority granted, the present tariff board may employ special agents to investigate the cost of production at home and abroad and also inquire into any other conditions and to secure any other information which may be of benefit to congress in the consideration of tariff legislation, or be an aid to the president in the administration of the tariff laws.

This looks fair upon its face. It was intended to sound big and to be impotent so far as performance is concerned.

Real Truth of the Matter.

Chairman Tawney calls attention to the fact that legislation of this character will be subject to a point of order upon an appropriation bill. For this reason he says it wasn't possible to make this legislation wider in scope, but that when the bill goes to the senate it may be there widened out and there they may put on a real tariff commission. Such a statement is partly true, but is wholly misleading. It is true that the legislation would be subject to a point of order. It is not true that it can be widened out in the senate. It is subject to the same point of order in the senate that it is in the house. At the present time while a point of order will be made in the house, if the committee had reported an adequate tariff commission provision, there is no question but that a majority of the house would vote to sustain the committee and enact the law. Under the control of the Aldrich machine in the senate, it is not possible to put through a tariff commission law in that body, and no one is better aware of this fact than is Mr. Tawney.

Under the bill as reported the tariff board will not have power to summon witnesses or compel the submission of papers, or to hold public hearings at which all sides to a controversy may be heard, and therefore it will not have the power to conduct investigations that will be of any practical value to congress. Its investigations will be secret. It will only hear one side, and the result will be that it will secure a mass of information or misinformation which might be urged upon the country as fair reasons not only for the maintenance of the present exorbitant schedules. That such an intention of any such investigation is clearly indicated in the line of speeches which the standpat organization are to have delivered over the country in the coming campaign. Vice President Sherman in his recent St. Louis speech pointed the way when he indicated that the country must be prepared not only to accept the present high schedules, but that the schedules may be raised still higher.

What the Result Will Be.

It can be easily conjectured that with a corps of experts selected by such an astute politician as Frank Hitchcock, that just that kind of information which will be useful to those who have special interest in view would be secured.

The Progressives will support the appropriation for $250,000, but they will make a fight to give to the country a real tariff commission. There is not much hope that this can be done, but they can at least put the responsibility of this legislation where it belongs. They can expose the fake and that will accomplish something.

Bourne's Remarkable Speech.

Senator Jonathan E. Bourne of Oregon delivered a remarkable speech upon the subject of popular government, the sensational feature of which, calling attention to the actions of Ormsby McMillan under the direction of Postmaster General Hitchcock to defeat the will of the people of Oregon in the selection of United States senators, has attracted some attention, but the real ground-work of which has received but little consideration in the press reports.

Mr. Bourne contended that the establishment of popular government in the place of delegated government is the remedy for the existing condition of unrest throughout the country. He asserted that the present unrest is due to lack of confidence on the part of the people in their public servants, and bitter resentment against political dictatorship, and declared that adoption of laws such as are in force in Oregon, the initiative and referendum, direct primary, direct selection of United States senators, the corrupt practices act and the recall, will restore confidence between the people and their public servants. In addition to these laws, he also advocated direct selection of candidates for president and vice-president, and direct election of delegates to national conventions.

Oregon Laws Good.

He explained and discussed the Oregon laws at length and declared that Oregon has the best system of popular government known in the world today, an absolute government by the people.

The Australian ballot, he said, insures secrecy, prevents intimidation and eliminates bribery. The initiative develops the electorate and the referendum restrains the legislature. Brain, ideas and argument rather than money, intimidation and log-rolling govern the standards of legislation. Since the initiative and referendum was adopted in Oregon in 1901, the people of that state have voted upon 22 measures submitted under the initiative, five under the referendum and four referred to the people by the legislature, these measures presenting every phase of legislation and some of them being bills of considerable length. That the people acted intelligently is evident from the fact that in no instance had there been general dissatisfaction with the result of the vote. The people are not only intelligent, but fair. There has been no hasty or ill-advised legislation. Corporations have not been held up and blackmailed by the people as they often have been by legislators. The people of Oregon were never more prosperous and contented than they are today and never before did the state offer such an inviting field for investment of capital.

Direct Primary Law.

The direct primary election law provides for direct nomination of candidates for United States senators, and also an expression of choice at the general election. Candidates for the state legislature may sign a pledge known as "Statement No. 1," in which they promise, if nominated and elected, to always vote for that candidate for the United States senate who receives the highest number of the people's votes at the preceding general election.

"No oath could be more sacred in honor," declared Senator Bourne, "no contract more binding; no mutual consideration more definite than is contained in this pledge; and no parties to a contract could be of more consequence to government and society than the electorate upon the one side and its servants upon the other."

Though the greatest possible strain was put upon the law, no member of the legislature has ever violated his pledge to the people of Oregon, and three United States senators have been elected after receiving the popular indorsement.

In conclusion Senator Bourne said that "the purpose of the Oregon laws is to destroy the irresponsible political machine and put all elective offices in the state in direct touch with the people as the real source of authority; to give direct and full force to the ballot of every elector in Oregon and to eliminate dominance of corporate and corrupt influences in administration of public affairs. The Oregon laws mark the course that must be pursued before the wrongful use of corporate power can be overthrown, the people restored to power and lasting reform secured. They insure absolute government by the people."

Beautiful Spanish Dancer Gives Praise to Pe-ru-na.

NERVOUS prostration is usually the result of a vacation which requires a continual strain on the nervous system.

In such cases it would be wise if a change of vocation could be made. But this is not always possible and a good tonic becomes a necessity.

Peruna is a tonic that invigorates without producing a drug habit.

Peruna is not a beverage nor a bitter, but an honest, straightforward tonic that increases the appetite and encourages digestion.

There is a great demand for tonics during the depressing heat of summer, and especially in countries where hot weather is very prevalent.

Such a demand is exactly met by Peruna.

Miss Pilar Monterde Praises Peruna as a Tonic.
A letter sent to the Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., from the popular Spanish dancer Miss Pilar Monterde, is as follows:

Teatro Principal, City of Mexico, Nov. 3, 1905.
Gentlemen: Having used your justly celebrated remedy, "La Peruna," for some time, I have the pleasure of informing you that I consider it the best tonic I have ever used.

It is a wonderful fortifier of the nerves after exhaustion and it increases the vitality of the whole body, and in my own case has produced the most complete and permanent restoration. It is also pleasant to the taste.

I do not hesitate, therefore, to recommend this remedy to all women as the best and most pleasant tonic that they can possibly take.

Yours very truly,
(Miss) F. Monterde.

Onion Hard to Trace.

The onion has been so long in cultivation that its original form is not definitely known. There are so-called wild onions that grow in the woods. Nobody ever tastes them but once, and there is about the taste no suggestion that cultivation or anything else could ever make them grateful to the human palate. In all probability the onion is a native of western Asia and adjacent parts of Africa, since it is mentioned in old Egyptian writings and the Pentateuch.

Jefferson Redfield will represent Rhinelander at the Northern Wisconsin Oratorical contest to be held in Wausau, Tuesday, May 24. His selection will be Wendell Phillips' "Toussaint L' Ouverture."

The closing rhetorical meetings for the year will be held Friday of this week.

William Rutz, '11, has withdrawn from school. It is understood that he plans to go to Chicago and take instructions fitting himself for the duties of a chauffeur.

Nothing but praise can be given to Miss Alban and the grade teachers for the work of the pupils in the May Festival, given last week. The affair was a success in every way.

Exciting debates occur daily in the economics class on the subject of Socialism. The voices of the youthful debaters penetrate even in to the halls and neighboring class rooms. There seems little possibility of ever settling the matter, for the adherents on both sides are determined and not to be changed.

TAFT MAY GET INTO THE FIGHT

STANDPATTERS SAID TO BE EXPECTING TO RECEIVE HELP FROM THE WHITE HOUSE.

ANNOYED BY OPPOSITION

Chief Executive Declared to Be on Verge of Denouncing Progressive Republicans Who Are Unable to Favor Administrative Measures.

Washington.—While in that indefinite way in which all things come from the White House, until there is a public declaration made as to the purposes of the president, the information is given out that the president is becoming so irritated by opposition in congress to his legislative program that he is going to speak right out in meeting against the Progressive Republicans.

Of course this is not official, but it has the stamp of being authoritative. It is said that he is indignant about the way in which certain men in the house declare publicly they are for the administration bills, and then go into session and vote against what he regards as essential features of these measures. The Progressives at whom all this is directed, continue to make arguments and force the votes in the house upon amendments to the rate bill which they consider essential and to be in the interests of the public.

One of the things which the Progressives have succeeded in doing to the bill is the adoption of an amendment providing for the physical valuation of all railroad property. This was not in the Wickersham bill. It is not in any scheme which has been put forth by the president for the control of railway rates and services. The amendment adopted by the house, which was introduced by Representative Madden of Illinois, was in all essential features the same amendment which Senator La Follette has had pending in the senate since 1906.

Victory for La Follette.

The claim is made at all times during the discussion upon this bill that the railroad rates in this country are satisfactory and that there is no complaint about excessive rates. The only complaint is that rates are unequal as between localities. Shippers complain of discriminations, but it is asserted that the charge is nowhere made that the rates are not reasonable. Senator La Follette alone takes the ground that the rates charged by the railroads are too high, and that the only way to determine whether they are reasonable or not is to obtain some standard of measurement. The standard of measurement must be a fair return upon the fair value of the property. In the determination of this he has contended that the first essential is the making of the valuation of the railroads. So reasonable was this proposition that notwithstanding the personal opposition which there is in congress among the Standpatters to La Follette, they were compelled to accept his amendment, and when put forth by Mr. Madden of Illinois, it went through the house by a vote of 131 to 67.

An effort will be made to take it out of the bill when the final vote is taken in the house, but there is no question but that it will remain in. The hope of the railroads then is to get it out in conference.

Democratic Faction Alarmed.

The impression which the Progressive Republicans are making upon the country is evidently having its effect upon those members of the Democratic party who are allied with the big financial interests just as the Aldrich-Cannon organization with the Republican party is allied with those interests. So long as the Progressives were but a handful in the senate or the house, incapable of making any impression upon legislation, there did not appear to be any danger and the Democratic minority could align itself with these Progressives with impunity.

Now, however, that the Progressives in the senate and house are increasing in numbers and in force the situation is changing. Some of the Democrats begin to see a real danger in the Progressive movement. For six weeks it has been known that some of the Democratic leaders were to take the floor and flay the Progressives. It was said that Senator Bailey of Texas was the man who was to do it, but the first note of this attack came from Senator Rayner of Maryland, and he was followed by Senator Bailey. The only construction which could be placed upon these two speeches was that they were delivered in the interests of the Aldrich organization. They were delivered with the evident intention to discredit the whole Progressive movement. Mr. Bailey and Mr. Rayner did not voice the opinion of all of the Democrats, and the Bailey speech was replied to the following day by Senator Clay of Georgia, who, from a Democratic standpoint, took the same ground that was expressed by Senator Dolliver in the reply which he made to the Rayner-Bailey argument.

Dolliver Answers Democrats.

Senator Dolliver said in part: "In 1904, when the Democratic party had unrestrained liberty in rewriting the tariff law, with which they were dissatisfied, they allowed the very interests concerned as beneficiaries of the schedules to fix them up in their own hands, and parse the sentences in which they were expressed. I read to the senate in the extraordinary session an autograph letter in the handwriting of Governor Dingey, now dead, in which, writing confidentially to the chairman of the board of general appraisers, he said: 'You are aware that the iron and steel manufacturers wrote those schedules in the Wilson bill. You are aware that the cotton manufacturers wrote that schedule in the Wilson bill.'

"And so throughout that historic measure, which was the first and only frillage the American people have ever had of Democratic fidelity to their principles, we had a statute written by its beneficiaries, and denounced by the president, a great Democrat, as an act of perfidy and dishonor against the people of the United States, and especially those confiding citizens who had looked to their party for tariff reformation in our law-making here. It is just such little incidents which have stopped me every time I look toward the Democratic side of the chamber for genuine tariff revision.

"My friend says you have made an alliance with the insurgents. I do not know with what insurgents an alliance has been made. I know all the insurgents on this side of the chamber, and I want to say to you, my honored friend from Maryland, that they have just one hard and fast alliance, and that is with that sense of public duty which keeps them here as servants of the people whom they have the honor to represent."

Progressives Continue Fight.

While the Progressives in the house have been perfecting the railroad rate bill, the Progressive senators have been fighting one of the greatest battles in the history of the upper house against section 7 of that bill, by the terms of which the Sherman anti-trust law is set aside so far as the railroads are concerned.

Senators Cummins, Dolliver, Clapp, Bristow, Borah and La Follette held the debate for a week upon this one section. Under the section as reported, traffic agreements between railroad companies are legalized by simply filing the same with the Interstate Commerce commission. Under an amendment proposed by Senator Crawford these agreements would have to be approved by the commission. Under an amendment proposed by Senator Cummins, not only the agreements between railroad companies, but all of the rates and schedules affected by such agreements would have to have the approval of the commission before they could become operative.

The senate organization was willing to accept the Crawford amendment. Senators Cummins, Dolliver, Borah, Bristow, Clapp and La Follette contended that the Crawford amendment would in no wise relieve the section from the charge of attempting to set aside the anti-trust law. During the consideration of this section the Progressive Republicans have again and again attacked the attorney general. In his Chicago speech Mr. Wickersham virtually told these Republicans that if they did not accept this legislation they were not members of the party. In the course of his speech Senator Clapp said:

"This winter the attorney general prepared a proposed federal incorporation law. Section 7, as prepared and published, contained this: 'Any corporation organized hereunder may acquire and hold not less than a majority.' I would like to know where this twilight zone of 50 per cent. came from in all these bills. If it is right to hold more than a majority, what earthly harm could there be in holding less?"

"I should like to inquire of the attorney general of the United States who the old and venerable and respected leaders of the Republican party were who constituted the council that gave birth to that sentiment. 'I can tell you, Mr. President, and senators, where the council was held that sounded the death-knell of that proposition before it ever reached this body. It was held in the homes from New England to California.

"We come now to inquire as to the council which framed some other provisions in this bill prepared by the attorney general. The congress in 1906, obedient to the great spirit and purpose of the American people, wore into the law of this republic, a provision that in a contest between a common carrier and a shipper, the shipper might have the right to appeal from an interlocutory order.

"But the attorney general, in drafting this bill, struck that out of the law. I should like a photograph of that gathering of sage and reverend Republicans, honored by their party, who sat around the council board, when it was decreed that the right of a shipper to appeal from an interlocutory order was the decree of the party council of the party to which I belong.

"This same bill went a step further. In 1906 we wrote into that law a rule that no injunction should issue to enjoin, restrain, modify or set aside an order of the commission except on five days' notice. But turn to this bill which the attorney general says is not the result of sudden impulse, but is the result of the solemn council of the party, and we find that it has taken from this bill the required notice for the issuing of injunctions.

"I should like to know how many reams of paper it would require to enroll the names of the Republicans who gathered around the council board when it was decreed in this bill as the matured views of the party council that the notice of injunction should be stricken from the law of this republic."

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS

Do Not Endanger Life When a Rhinelander Citizen Shows "You The Cure"

RINGLING'S NEW PROPOSITION

Ringling Bros. have submitted a proposition to the Progressive league at Chippewa Falls offering to exhibit their circus in that city on June 23, providing the community will provide free site of ten acres, free license and free water. The circus on its part would advertise circus day at Chippewa Falls over a territory within a radius of 50 miles and anticipates that the show would attract 10,000 non-residents to the city on that date. The management of the Progressive league looked with favor upon the idea and on Tuesday had about completed arrangements to accept the proposition. This is a new idea in circus arrangements but there are two sides of the proposition and it may not be as cheery as it seems at first blush. If it was any other sort of an attraction but a circus some communities would be willing to spend a good many hundred dollars to bring 10,000 non-residents into the city even for one day.

WAGON ROAD GRANT CUT

INTO SMALL FARMS.

Evidence of the powerful influence the advent of a railroad is having in the development of central Oregon and the price of its lands, is shown in the offer made a few days ago by an eastern timber syndicate to purchase the 230,000 acres of timber land lying in the Cascade mountains and embraced in the Willamette Valley & Cascade Mountain Wagon Road company's grant. This grant, stretching from Albany eastward across the state to the Idaho line, was purchased by a group of Minneapolis capitalists a few weeks ago and includes 900,000 acres. The purchase price was $7,500,000.

Offered $5,000,000 for Timber

It is stated authoritatively that the Minneapolis company was offered $5,000,000 for its timber land alone, an equivalent of $25 an acre for the 200,000 acres. The offer, it is understood, was not even considered. Timber men state that if the timber in the grant is ever sold it will bring more than twice the amount recently offered, or a sum $2,500,000 in excess of the price paid for the entire grant of practically 900,000 acres. Some of the finest and heaviest timber in the Pacific northwest is embraced in the wagon road company's grant.

The figures quoted, however, show the intrinsic value of the Minneapolis company's purchase and give an inkling of tremendous profits to be derived within a few months when the agricultural and grazing lands are put on the market and sold.

Granting that the timber is worth only the $5,000,000 which has been offered, the balance of the 700,000 acres in the grant represents a cost price of $2,500,000, or $3.50 an acre.

Rich Agricultural Land

Of this 700,000 acres, nearly 300,000 lie in Crook county and include the richest and most fertile agricultural and irrigable lands in central Oregon. Thousands of acres of the tract are worth today between $50 and $100 an acre. The same run of values holds true throughout the confines of the grant in Harney and Malheur counties. The men who chose the land years ago for the road company for a distance of six miles on either side of the line had the entire country to pick from and they selected the meat of central Oregon from Albany to the Idaho line.

With scrip quoted at $13 an acre the purchase of which is the only means open for the acquirement of large bodies of government land, a greatly enhanced value is given to the company's holdings which cannot be classed as agricultural areas, but instead will be sold for grazing purposes. The grazing lands, however, represent but a small part of the 700,000 acres held outside of the timbered districts in the Cascades.

Open for Settlement

With the transfer of the vast tract from the French bankers to its present owners, who are planning on subdividing it and opening it up to immediate settlement, new interest has been added to the history of its acquirement.

For 40 years the grant has lain in idle uselessness, the owners refusing to sell any portion of it, except here and there a quarter section and the town lots in the cities which have been located within its boundaries. Generally speaking, most of this immense body of fertile land has been viewed as worse than useless for more than a generation, and the fact that it has remained undeveloped has done much to retard development and keep out thousands of settlers who soon will be able to buy it for farming purposes.

Old settlers of Crook county, who were here when the road was first proposed, still tell with delight the manner in which the road was "constructed." Through Crook county, it is said, a man drove along the basin of Crooked river with a horse and wagon. He left a trail of dust and two wagon tracks behind. If the wind had been blowing hard five minutes afterwards; this military wagon road, so constructed, would have been in oblivion. As it was it passed from observation within a few hours. Yet for this arduous task, the government gave to the promoters every alternate section of land for a distance of six miles on both sides of this imaginary road. If the country happened to be poor on one side, the poor land was eliminated and an additional strip taken on the opposite side. Generally, however, the road was "constructed" through the rich and fertile valley regions where very little chess playing with the alternate sections was necessary.

The company's actual expenditure was confined to the Cascade mountains and the eastern slope down to the Deschutes. A road was actually built in this district and a log bridge constructed across the Deschutes. It is estimated that this work cost about $10,000 or $15,000, and for this and the time spent in driving a wagon across the state, the government gave land for which $7,500,000 has just been paid and which is worth many times that sum.

THE COST OF ARMAMENT

It is little wonder that when the other great powers have gone mad in a frenzy of self-defense, the United States has been drawn into the same folly and is squandering untold millions for ships and forts.

The world is hysterical over the possibility of war, and the hysteria has touched us, in spite of our isolation and our comparative safety from attack. A little sober figuring may help to clear the situation.

In every war we have had with a foreign nation we made the first attack. We are now in less danger from attack than any other great nation. Yet we are spending more for past war and preparation for future war than any other nation in the world.

Leaving out of account the cost of former wars, we are spending for defense more than France, only $26,000,000 less than Germany, and only $46,000,000 less than Great Britain, which has vast possessions to protect around the globe, and is unable to feed itself except by imports.

We have increased our expenditure for defense 200 times during a period when our population has increased only twenty-two times, our coast line three times, and our danger from attack perhaps not at all.

We are already spending over six-tenths per cent. of the nation's revenue in payment for past war and preparation for future war, and have left only one-third of our revenue for the really important items of executive and judicial departments, post-offices, waterways, forestry, custom houses, consular and diplomatic service, coast guard, lighthouses, quarantine, census, and other constructive work.

Consider, now, the fact that we are destroying every year by reckless slaughter in times of peace more lives than were lost in our last three foreign wars. Consider that in four years we have killed, by accidents largely preventable, 63,000 more people than were killed on both sides in the four years of our Civil War. And consider that the $60,000,000 increase of the navy asked for last year, if spent in fighting disease, ignorance, waste, and wickedness at home, probably could save as much life and property as all our wars, civil and foreign together, have cost. Isn't it time for us to regain control of our national nerves, and recovering from this war hysteria, to devote our energies to constructive and profitable pursuits?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

LIFE A DIFFICULT PROPOSITION.

A good friend of the New North hands us the following:

Man comes into the world without his consent; and leaves against his will. During his stay on earth, his time is spent in one continuous round of contraries and misunderstandings. In his infancy he is an angel; in his boyhood he is a devil; in his manhood he is everything from a lizard up. In his duties, he is a darn fool; if he raises a family he is a chump; if he raises a check, he is a thief; and then the law raises hell with him; if he is a poor man, he is a poor manager and has no sense; if he is rich, he is dishonest, but considered smart; if he is in politics, he is a grifter and a crook; if he is out of politics, you can't place him, he is an undesirable citizen; if he goes church, he is a hypocrite; if he stays away from church, he is a sinner. If he donates to charity, he does it for a show; if he doesn't he is stingy and a tightwad. When he first comes into this world every one wants to kiss him; before he goes out, they all want to kick him. If he dies young, there was a great future before him; if he lives to a ripe old age, he is in the way, only living to save funeral expenses. Life is a funny proposition after all.

FORESTER WANTS FIRE PATROL UNDER FORESTRY BOARD

The whole fire warden system of Wisconsin is faulty from the fact that it is based upon the fighting or putting out of fires after they occur, rather than preventing the starting of fires in the first instance," said E. M. Griffith, state forester for Wisconsin, today.

"The worst fires have been in Douglas, Bayfield, Lincoln and Langlade counties," he continued. "These have been caused largely by carelessness of the settlers in burning to clear lands for agriculture, the fires having gotten the better of them. The railroad, particularly between Ashland and Superior, have been setting a great many fires."

"The special committee of the legislature on waterpowers, forestry and drainage now has the question of forest fires and their prevention under consideration. I have asked the committee to recommend a law which will permit the state board of forestry to organize a system of forest fire patrols such as are in very successful operation in many of the western states to prevent the starting of forest fires."

ALVERSON'S ADVENTURE

By STACEY E. BAKER

(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)

Alverson found the letter on the street. It was unopened and addressed to Mrs. Martin Von Kruger, 104 W. Wendenburg avenue. His curious eyes found the number above the door of the house just opposite. It was 104.

"I have a letter for Mrs. Von Kruger," he explained to the tidy maid answering the bell. "—"

"You are expected, sir," answered the servant, with a neat little bow.

"This way, please."

"But—" objected Alverson.

"Too late!" The maid was already on her way. With a resigned sigh he followed.

Mrs. Von Kruger swept gracefully across the velvet carpet and extended a well-manicured hand on the artistic level of the young man's chin. She was a tall, portly dame, middle aged, and with the confident air of the successful social leader.

"I knew you instantly," she smiled into the face of the surprised Alverson. "Instantly," she reiterated, releasing his hand. "Be seated, please. Dolly will be in in a moment."

Alverson gave over to the woman the letter which she carelessly laid on a convenient stand—unopened.

"You see," continued Mrs. Von Kruger, "you have been so thoroughly described to me that I have had a mind picture of you for months. Tall, broad-shouldered, curly hair, blue eyes, resolute jaw, high cheek bones, and—let me see—good conversationalist."

Alverson mentally summed up the situation. Here was he, a soap salesman out of Chicago, exchanging airy persiflage with a hostess who certainly entertained under the delusion that her visitor was some one expected. And he was poor enough to sit here and accept this same hospitality. He squirmed, metaphorically, in his chair, and cursed his own stupidity in not explaining.

This last mental racking was brought about by a keen glance at the slim girl who had drawn aside the portieres that curtained the entrance to another room and now stood, a slight flush upon her fair cheeks, revealed in all her dainty loveliness.

"Mr. Alverson, my daughter, Dolly, you have often heard me speak of the Alversons of Chicago. This is one of them."

Alverson's heart leaped into his throat. How did this woman know him? He had never heard of the Von Krugers at home and he was quite certain that had the family been as intimate with them as the words of his hostess seemed to imply he would at least be familiar with their names.

But the girl! For the second that their hands met in brief contact all thoughts of this unusual situation vanished from his mind. She was a dream! A revelation!

"I am pleased to meet you," He heard his voice respond to the introduction as from a distance. His senses swam. Magnetism is closely akin to hypnotism.

"What do you think of New York, Mr. Alverson?" asked the girl.

"It was on the tip of the youth's tongue to say that the novelty of a trip to the metropolis had worn away several reasons ago, but he suddenly recollected that he was undoubtedly supposed to be a stranger in the city. "From what I have seen of New York today I am much impressed," he declared, his mind, as a conscientious, reverting to the several substantial orders he had filed.

Mrs. Von Kruger, after several conventional phrases, suddenly excused herself and left the room.

No sooner had the portieres closed behind her than the girl leaned forward in her chair and, with a steady eye on the youth, asked:

"And now I am ready for your explanation. Who are you, sir?"

The man gasped at the suddenness of the question. Surprises were the order of the evening.

"Why—I—" he stammered, and then, with a determined effort to braven it through, "What do you mean? You heard your mother's introduction, did you not?"

"Mother," explained the girl, "is—er non compos mentis; and the Alverson she speaks of has been dead for 10 years. At the time she was stricken she was expecting this person to pay her a conventional call and she has never gotten beyond that day. Now, if I may repeat, who are you?"

And Alverson explained.

"Had our regular maid been on duty," continued the girl, "this would never have happened. But mother's little falling has never been explained to our new acquisition." She turned almost timid eyes toward the man. "However, I—I don't know but what I am glad it happened. This may have a tendency to do away with her—er—vagary."

"Then my calls should continue," suggested the traveling man.

"What do you mean?"

"Why, that I should be allowed to come here often, if the subterfuge is to be kept up. In the interests of a cure, you know."

"Of course," she agreed, "if it will relieve mamma of her mild mania, I—I can't object."

A Blunder.

Taking the Census in England.
In England a census is taken every seven years. In the United States the work costs some $5,000,000; in England, with a population of 42,000,000, the work is done by the regular public officials, without extra cost. There the census is taken on a certain day at a certain hour, usually Saturday at 11 p. m., because most people are then at home. Printed circulars have been sent by the police to every family and to the owners of all lodgings and hotels. These circulars contain blanks, which must be filled.

History of the Beet.
Beets were first found growing wild in sandy soils near the sea in Europe and western Asia. The wild beet still found there is regarded by authority as the original type. This wild beet is slender rooted and has a taste so different from the beet we know today, that one must consider the first man who tasted and thought it possible to develop, had gifts of hope and imagination far beyond ordinary. The beet has been cultivated since 200-300 B. C.

Virtue in Hot Coffee.
It is asserted by men of high professional ability that when the system needs a stimulant nothing equals a cup of fresh coffee, while those who have tried it state that malaria and similar epidemics are avoided by those who drink a cup of hot coffee before venturing into the morning air. Burnt on hot coals it is a disinfectant for a sick room. By some of our best physicians it is considered a specific in typhoid fever.

Back and Forth.
"You're so concelled, Connie, that I believe when you get into heaven the first question you'll ask will be: 'Are my wings on straight?'" Connie—Yes, dear, and I shall be sorry that you won't be there to tell me.—Illustrated Bits.

Mean.
"She's the meanest woman I know of." "What makes you say that when you don't even know her to speak to?" "I know, but she's the woman on the other half of our party telephone line."
